About London Real Estate Forum

A unique invitation has been extended to the Central South UK by the organisers NLA. Primarily focused on London this is a great opportunity to meet real estate supply chain connections and investors. Central South will have a dedicated Round Table session as part of the agenda.

The 2026 London Real Estate Forum will place connectivity at its heart, exploring how our world-leading built environment ecosystem can sustain and strengthen UK's global position as we confront the generational challenges of AI, climate change, and an evolving geopolitical landscape.

Beyond global connectivity, we will also dive into how the built environment sector prioritises our own interdisciplinary connections – between public and private, investor and community, digital and physical – to foster collaboration, trust and delivery at pace.

It is those connections that will help us to unlock place-based investment into transport, energy, data and social infrastructure – the foundations that will enable new housing, workplaces, learning and innovation districts, visitor experiences, and public spaces to thrive.
